

Please join us in a discussion with Sandy Summers!

Why Media Portrayals of Nurses Put Us All at Risk and How We Can Change Them

Sandy Summers, MSN, MPH, RN

July 31, 2013 2:00PM

Fairfield University- School of Nursing, Room 203

See Bldg #12 on this map at <http://tinyurl.com/jwd546y>

Sandy Summers is the Founder and Executive Director of The Truth About Nursing. Since 2001 she has led the effort to change how the world views nursing by challenging damaging media depictions of nurses -- see www.truthaboutnursing.org

Ms. Summers is the co-author of Saving Lives: Why the Media's Portrayal of Nurses Puts Us All at Risk. Her media advocacy work began when she and fellow Johns Hopkins graduate students began the movement in April 2001. She speaks frequently on nursing's image and empowering nurse to change how they are perceived.